SITUATION IN MEXICO NOW NOT CRITICAL

Policy of Alternate Provisions Suggested by Officials in Washington

CONGRESS CONSIDERS PLAN Huerta Promises Protection for Americans While He Is in Office

WASHINGTON, July 29.—President Wilson and Secretary Bryan devoted themselves today to a study of the voluminous reports at their disposal on conditions in Mexico. Indications were that with the appearance before the Senate committee on foreign relations tomorrow of Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson, the last stage in the program of the administration to discover the facts of the situation before announcing a policy would be reached.

While a resolution in the house called for a joint committee to obtain documents in the Mexican situation, and another in the senate sought the opinion of that body on the question of recognizing the belligerency of the revolutionists, administration officials were declared that there would be no haste in formulating a definite policy toward Mexico. Secretary Bryan stated that no plan for recognition had been submitted to either of the two houses in either and incidentally remarked that he might be asked to formulate a plan in a few days. The study of the situation by the full senate will be completed by the end of the month, according to the administration.

Secretary Bryan said today he had no idea of what might contain Japan's contention that the "Carthage" law violates treaty obligations as well as infringes upon the rights of Japanese under the broad principles of international law was referred to at length in the last American note and state department officials hoped that the midwest government had been convinced that nothing further could be done until occasion arose for a test case of the law in the courts.

GRAND MULHALL STORY AS FALSE LIT AND BLACKMAILER, SAYS UNDERWOOD

Examination of Lobbyist in Senate at Today's Session

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Senator M. Mulhall practically finished today his examination of the lobbyist who had been the subject of the investigation of the National Association of Manufacturers. The senate investigation committee will turn its attention tomorrow to examination of Mulhall, and attorneys for the association and for the American Federation of Labor also involved in the investigation will begin the cross-examination of the witness.

Members of the committee still at-tempted to question Mulhall's story of his political activities in Washington and throughout the country while the attorney will do their best to break it down. Questions by the lawyers under the committee rule will be asked through its chairman, Robert M. La Follette, counsel for the association, has about 200 questions he wishes to ask the witness. Attorney Jackson H. Reardon, for the Federation of Labor, has prepared about 100 more, and no one knows how many separate questions members of the committee will submit to Mulhall before he is allowed to quit the witness stand.

Mulhall's last day as an identifier of lobbyists proved the most exciting of his career.

HEAD CAMP DELEGATES, W. O. W., CLT DOWN TO REAL BUSINESS; PRIZE DRIFT TODAY AT ZOO

Sightseeing Can Ride This Morning; Grand Ball Tonight at Stratton Pavilion

With the triennial reports of the officers out of the way, delegates to the head camp session of the Pacific Jurisdiction of the Woodmen of the World at yesterday afternoon's business session plunged into the real work of the convention when the committee on laws submitted its report. The report was taken up paragraph by paragraph, but it was so lengthy that at the close of the three hours session only about one-half of it had been passed upon.

The recommendations of the laws committee will be taken up at this morning's session, and it is expected that measures are recommended by the committee, the majority of the resolutions dealing with minor matters concerning a welfare of the order. The only important report to be taken up in the report of the resolutions committee, which will not be presented for several days.

Attend to business during business hours and then the social side of the head camp session. However there is no time to the theory which the delegates will work upon during the convention. At yesterday morning's session it was decided to continue the business session this morning until 10 o'clock, instead of as had been planned by the local entertainment committee. This change would necessitate a change in the program for the day.

Sightseeing Trips Today.

The sightseeing street car ride which had been planned for 9:30 o'clock this morning will leave from the Minge Exchange building, Denver. Three local sightseeing parties will leave at 10 o'clock this afternoon. Head camp officers, delegates and their families and drill teams will be taken on a trip over the entire region. The drill team of Colorado Springs came No. 418. W. O. W. are requested to appear in full uniform, drill troupe at the corner of Tenth and Tenth at 10 o'clock this afternoon to leave for the sightseeing trip. The

EASY CREDITS

A FEW days ago we remarked in this column that "the ease with which people who have no credit rating can get almost unlimited credit in Colorado Springs is marvelous." Commenting on this statement, a correspondent sends us the following:

"One day while riding in a Broadway car I overheard two ladies from Texas—tourists—talking about Colorado Springs. They had rented a cottage and said the business people—dry goods men, grocers, and even the ice men—wanted them to run accounts. They didn't want cash. They said they had received a great deal and were afraid to run. I said to the lady: 'You are a very big girl. I am sure they don't know you, and you could have a very good credit rating.'"

"I said to her: 'A merchant loses a bad credit rating just as a housekeeper loses a bad bill. I have been a housekeeper for thirty-seven years and what I can't afford I don't buy. Only a dealer will eat what he doesn't know.'"

There is no exaggeration in the statement quoted, as to the willingness of most of the business people to take any business. There are business concerns here that actually charge accounts to their customers, rather than to the people who are running the business. The merchant who in his eagerness for business takes such reckless chances is following a course which must inevitably cost him more than it earns. The better and safer way would be to refuse credit to anybody not personally known to him, to be reliable, or who could not furnish a satisfactory credit rating. True, this involves the risk of offending the prospective customer, but anybody who is going to be offended by an inquiry as to his credit is not likely to prove a desirable customer anyway.

NICARAGUA'S CANAL SITE

THE Panama Canal will be opened to traffic before the end of another year, but even before our Government is through spending money on it a proposal is made for the purchase of another canal site. For that is the real meaning of Secretary Bryan's proposed treaty with Nicaragua establishing what would virtually be an American protectorate over that country, such as is now exercised over Cuba.

Nicaragua is anxious to make the agreement because it needs the $3,000,000 which the United States would pay. If it cannot make the deal with our Government it probably will negotiate with some European power for the sale of the canal site. And from the standpoint of practical gains this is the only reason for making the treaty—in prevent the construction of another isthmian canal.

The treaty in its original form, as negotiated by the Taft administration, contemplated only the acquisition of the exclusive right to build a canal at Nicaragua and the right to naval stations. Mr. Bryan's addition to it is practically a duplication of the arrangement with Cuba whereby the United States enacts the role of general manager. Under the proposed plan Nicaragua would agree:

That war should not be declared without the consent of the United States.

That treaties would not be made with foreign governments that would tend to destroy her independence or that would give those governments a foothold in the republic.

That no public debt would be contracted beyond the ordinary requirements of the government indicated by the ordinary revenues.

That the United States should have the exclusive right to build a canal across Nicaragua, and should have a 99-year lease to a naval base in the bay of Fonseca and to the Great Corn and Little Corn islands in the Caribbean with the privilege of sending the home of the United States in return would pay Nicaragua $3,000,000 to be used in public works and education.

It may be that no foreign government would ever care to assume the expense and risk the diplomatic complications involved in an attempt to build a canal across Nicaragua. Indeed it is hardly likely that such a thing would ever happen, but if it did it would vitally affect the interests of the United States. The question of the desirability of the arrangement is simply one of whether it is worth $3,000,000 to remove this danger, and it probably will prove to be a problem for Congress to wrangle over for a long time.

MARRING SCENIC BEAUTY

WHEN there are so many beautiful places which Colorado Springs and the Pikes Peak Region offer to the sightseer for his pleasure and amusement, it seems a great pity that he cannot exercise a little care and civic interest and refrain from scattering his bags, boxes and papers all over the parks.

Monument Valley Park, given by a public benefactor for the pleasure of the people, is undoubtedly a wonderfully pretty and attractive place. But no one likes to have it spoiled with the occasional papers blowing about as they do. At one end of the park there is a cool delightful spring, hidden the other day with sudden papers and cardboard left by careless picknickers.

There is hardly a more beautiful spot in the region than South Cheyenne Canon and Seven Falls, but no sooner has one mounted the steps than papers fairly blow in his face. There are small cards pinned to trees and big cards pinned to bushes. Papers and bags, picnic remains of every kind of unattractive litter, lie all over the grounds.

No one likes to be on the point of admiring a magnificent view only to turn a head and come upon a heap of papers. It is untidy and disgusting, and so very easy to avoid with a little care and thought on the part of the public.

Signs of all kinds are erected in the parks signs that warn against picking flowers or injuring shrubbery, in the mountains signs that direct you where to go, or what to do. But there are no signs that forbid the visitor to carry his empty lunch box away with him, and never a sign to warn against littering the grounds with untidy traces.

Why not use a little care, even if there are no signs? Stop those who do it, and try to make public sentiment turn against it. It is a rapidly increasing habit that is spoiling many of the beautiful points of interest in the mountains and parks of the Pikes Peak Region.

ON VEGETABLES

Much harm may inhere in brief legislative verbiage. By the projected ellipsis of the two words which form the title of this paragraph, an attempt is made to do away with the potency of the national Pure Food law. This subversive way was proposed by a certain congressman as "H. R. 10339," and proposed that a certain paragraph of the present law be and the same is hereby amended by striking out the word "or vegetable."

Now the paragraph thus attacked provides that a food shall be deemed adulterated "if it contains in whole or in part a filthy, decomposed, or putrid animal or vegetable substance," the words being omitted. Hence, the striking out of the word "or vegetable" would at once exempt from the penalty of the law and thus throw the traffic of the nation with to the filthy, decomposed, or putrid fruits, berries, pickles, pickles, and canned or prepared goods of the grocer and others without restriction.

The author of this delectable and appetizing amendment is Representative W. J. Cary of Wisconsin. He did it "by request." Whose request? Repeated attempts to elicit this information from Mr. Cary have failed. Locked in his faithful and innocent dog he preserves it. It is in his possession of the secret identity of the requester. The term "innocent" is also, in a sense, said by request, for Mr. Cary would have one infer that he did not appreciate the purpose of this bill. When his attention was directed to its potential effect he gallantly responded: "I do not wish to father a bill if it does what you say, and therefore will let it die." So this particular attempt proves abortive.

But it behooves the public which must eat to live, to keep a wary eye on Cary and his species of amendment. A less innocent and confiding person would perhaps better represent the request, the enlightened state of Wisconsin.

NOT "HONORABLY DISCHARGED"

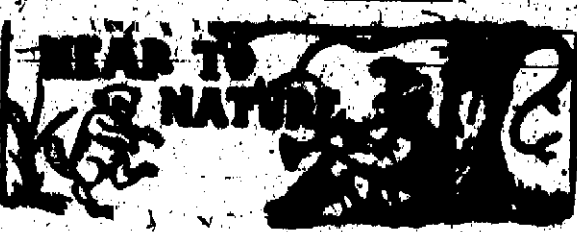

From the Kansas City Journal.
 J. R. Ford, commander of Marine Corps and United Confederate Veterans at Butler, Mo., published a card in the Bates County Democrat in regard to ex-Confederates receiving pensions under the act of the Missouri legislature. The law says that an applicant for a pension must show an honorable discharge, but Mr. Ford says that this will be impossible, as there never was an honorable discharge of Confederate soldiers. All Confederate soldiers were made prisoners of war and paroled according to the agreement made by General Lee and General Grant and remained as such for two years. Afterward by proclamation by the president they were returned to citizenship and given the right to vote. If Mr. Ford is right in his conclusion, and ex-Confederates must show honorable discharges, few of them will be able to take advantage of the pension law. It does not seem probable, however, that such a fitness requirement would be allowed to defeat the law, especially since the law was passed at the demand of the Democratic administration.

NOT COURTEOUS, BUT TRUE

From the New York Tribune.
 It may have been a pardonable exhibition of inter-departmental courtesy for James V. Ahearn, the federal district court for the northern quarter of California to issue an order for a grand jury modifying the criticism which it wished to put on record of the action of the president and the attorney general in the Gaminetti-Diggs white slave cases. The judicial and executive departments are coordinate branches of the government, and each has to be considered of the feelings of the other. A federal judge would naturally be loath to show a grand jury to express an oblique opinion upon the action of the executive department. But the administration of justice in California.

100 POSTMASTERS AT DENVER CONVENTION

DENVER, July 29.—The annual convention of the National Association of First Class Postmasters opened here today with more than 100 members in attendance from all parts of the country. The sessions will continue three days. Discussions will include the possibility of continuing the 8-hour employment of postal attaches establishing sub-department offices, increasing the limit of postal savings deposits and the general reclassification of mail.

The delegates were welcomed at the opening session by Gov. Ammons and Mayor Perkins. Following J. H. Harris of Denver presided.

During the session (this morning) J. H. Harris, Director of the U. S. Post Office, presided. He said that the U. S. Post Office was the largest of any government department, and that it was the duty of the postmaster to see that the service was the best that could be given.

Germans Protest at Tariff on Books

WASHINGTON, July 29.—German societies throughout the United States have protested to congress and to President Wilson against the proposed duty of 15 per cent on foreign books. German books are now at the free list, but would be subjected to the 15 per cent duty under the tariff bill now pending in the senate. The German organization declares the proposed duty would be a tax on literature and literary progress.

President Wilson has taken a similar position as to the duty on books. In foreign language, particularly those of an educational or scientific character. Dr. C. A. Hexamer of Philadelphia, president of the National German alliance and the presidents of state branches of the alliance have forwarded strong protests against the duty to the tariff leaders in both branches of congress.

CALUMET PLACE, SECRETARY BRYAN'S WASHINGTON HOME. RENTAL $4,000 A YEAR OUT OF HIS SALARY OF $12,000

When William J. Bryan, commencing, maintains his Jeffersonian simplicity as secretary of state on $12,000 a year, the question which is not only official and official Washington and interesting the rest of the country, can be estimated on the basis of the $4,000 a year left.

Most of those familiar with Washington life do not believe an ordinary secretary of state could do it. The bill for a new home owned by the foreigner would be declared, reach a minimum of $2,500 a year. But Mr. Bryan's Calumet place in his home, Calumet Place, is owned by Mrs. John A. Logan.

At the end of the year was discussed in Washington as to whether Secretary Bryan would seek to keep up the high standard of his predecessors. For the first three months, Mr. Bryan looked at a large hotel and immediately decided to build a new home. It was only a short time ago that the new home was built, and it was a very comfortable one. It was a very comfortable one. It was a very comfortable one.

Champion for the Cause
Barrow has already done quite enough for minor league baseball to establish his name as a true champion for the cause. He has helped many who are content in life on a part-time basis purposes next year to inaugurate the most radical changes in the hope of solving the principal disadvantages under which the big fourth of the national pastime now toils. Barrow has the nerve to try a scheme which if successful, is bound to do no less than revolutionize the administration of the

The players of the International League next spring will be poked at the spring schedule matters after they have all been put under contract. The various managers will cast lots for first choice. They will draw for the various parts of the circuit. Harrow believes that this was said only in this way will it be possible to distribute the talent as evenly as possible among the various clubs. Managers believe that such a contest will result in a much better balanced competition. That every team will have a chance for the pennant and that the resulting close competitions should prove more interesting to fans and general and more remunerative to the players.

May Revolutionize Game
If the International League club owners have the nerve to introduce the scheme of their president it will at least assure a fine trial of the proposed remedy for many of the present drawbacks of the game. The experiment should be worth a great deal for advertising purposes alone. It would attract more attention to the International league than to either of the big leagues. The whole country would be interested in the outcome and no one would watch the results with greater interest than the players of the two major leagues.

Barrow's thesis amounts a mere round one. So far as it is only a draw and by hammering home their ideas to a new breed of fanatics early spring. As a pure sporting proposition the new order of things would give the first true test on real managerial ability. Even balanced fields would estimate the element of luck.

EXCELLENT TIME MADE AT GRAND RAPIDS MEETING

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. July 29.—Although attended by a record-breaking northern one, today's Grand Circuit was an especially excellent time.

If it would stand the acid test in the major league it is a certainty it would be welcomed in the big show. There is no more discouraging element in the promotion of major league baseball than the seeming inability of second division clubs to secure consistent talent. The New York American club is a very good illustration of this. In the last five years Frank Farrell has won fourteen straight to finish up by losing club. Today it is right where it was in 1908—two back in the pack. All his power has been thrown away. There is absolutely no sentiment in baseball. Not a tidal wave would sweep Frank Farrell's worth a cent if he thought it would swing later in the 10th hole just off averaging 2.09 a day. The average was, then, 2.09 per moved over to Billy M. highly touted favorite who won straight bats.

The Grand Rapids railroad purse for 20 in 1908 fell to 14,000. Left in straight heats with Earl Lyle moving close to each finish. All three teams were in the money and became 9th, 10th and 11th. The grand prize was a new walk for the grandeur. Herndon's 10th year in the third heat.

NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, July 20.—A reactionary tendency was manifested by the stock market today, almost the first in a fortnight. Trading was lighter than on the previous day. Not only was the underwriting of today's operations heavy for the market, but there were indications as well that the rise had come to a halt for a time at least.
